

I chose to organize my site in this way because this is generally how I organize the folders on my own computer using the finder. I have nested each module in lists based on which part of the site-building process they were a part of. I think it is easy for the user to navigate a site like this because it is intuitive and organized.